Dearest Mother

We are just leaving by the C. P. R. train for Quebec!
Montreal is charming in the early summer. Jack is a dealer tho' he roars over the ice which still showers from my blongings. Love to all Kate.

Chateau Frontenac
Quebec

June 13 - 07

Three days of romance (old + new!) in this delightful spot. From my window in this hotel, I can catch a glimpse of the "Empress of Ireland," lying in the harbor below. We go on board tomorrow. Lovingly dear mother,
Kate.

S.S. Empress of Ireland
June 14 - 07

We're off! I scribble this sitting on deck, as we glide down the river. "The Chateaux" and the ramparts fade into the blue. I wonder if foreign shores will show anything more picturesque than "old Quebec"? Lovingly
Hale

near Rimonski.

June 14, 07

A last time dear Mother for the pilot to take ashore. I shall send you some "Impress" post cards as well as a letter, from Liverpool. The St. Lawrence river is wonderful. We have another whole day before we leave its sheltered waters, and face the open sea. And love to all
Kate.

Jack played cricket on deck this a. m., and made 110 runs, before the bugle brought him down to lunch, when he ate straight through the menu. He says this route has all the others "skinned to death," whatever that means.

Kate.

SWAN HAWK ROYAL MAIL

S.S. Imperius of Ireland
June 18-07.

Have just had a "Sun-bathe" on the upper deck. Many of the passengers are charming, and every body seems so gay. Apparently old "mal-de-mers" does not patronize this boat! I think everyone knows me for "the trick". Jack can't help a "proudful" air.
Kate.

Liverpool

June 21, 07

Just leaving for London, by the "Empress Special." We had no trouble in landing, everything done for us.
 We did hate saying good-bye to the dear old "Ireland". Hope you are enjoying this chain of "picture posts". Yr. lovingly
 Kate.

London

June 22 - 07.

Here we are in "London Town".
Weather, and everything else, delightful!
Have quite took my heart to the soldiers. Jack says they beat anything he ever got for Xmas.
Poor dear! He's jealous.
Kate

London

June 24. 07

Yesterday we drove in the Park.
It was a glorious day, and there were crowds of people. Such stunning clothes! The men's "frocks" & hats, are almost as wonderful as the women's. Thank goodness!
I've got a few pennies to spend in Bond St. Wish you were here to help me.
With love dear Mother, Kate.

Lake of Killarney
Ireland

June 29 07

We are thoroughly enjoying the "Emerald Isle". Such hills and lakes and bogues and butter milk! I could spend weeks touring the country. But I wish we had our own machine.
I think the national conveyance should be called a "Golfing Car".
You must come next year dear Mother
Kate.

Amsterdam

July 3 - 07.
My last card was from Ireland.
This country in its own way is as picturesque. So glad I have my camera
I get "snap shot bits" at every turn.
Jack's comment on Amsterdam is that it's "a wet town". Men seem to have a language of their own. Of course I've brought some old Wilkes.
Yours Kate.

Paris
July 6 07

Have no words for this enchanting city: This must do as a letter till I have time to catch my breath. Such sights!
Such contrasts! This morning we revelled in visions of the historic past, passing through the St. Denis gate. In the afternoon we drove in the Champs Elysees & took in the fashions of the future.
Hate.

jewels, which have displayed themselves to my astonished eyes
We cross to England tomorrow!
Lovingly Kate.

Back again for a few final hours of sight seeing. Then we pack our boxes for the last time, and take the G. P. R. Express special from there. I dare say we shall meet

S.S. Imperator of Britain

Here we are, safe on board, our faces turned towards home. Every thing seems so cheery and comfortable as on the "Imperator of British Ireland." Already we feel at home. A new moon is climbing up the sky. I know it will be a "honey" one ^{to} us. Until we meet dear mother in our loving State
